

STATE transportation revenue (FY '13 estimates of primary sources)

State Fuel Energy Tax

(Includes traditional gasoline state excise tax at 19 cents / gallon)

$950 million

Federal Aid

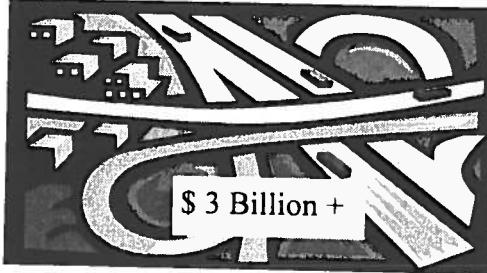

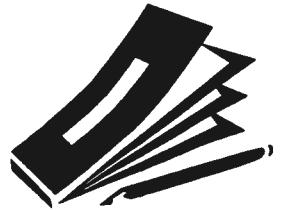

(Includes traditional gasoline federal excise tax at 18.4 cents / gallon)

$1.2 billion

Registration Fees

$908 million

Gasoline tax revenues have declined every year since FY 2001-02, a trend that will continue. As gasoline usage continues to decline, the fuel energy tax, which accounts for roughly 60% of our road funds declines even further.

Options others have looked at:

- Have component of electricity taxes from utility bill go towards roads
 - Technological hurdles, works for electric cars only
 - Taxpayers often pay for public charging stations, not users
- Vehicle Miles Traveled (VMT) electronic tolling tax
 - Not all cars have GPS systems; privacy concerns
- Registration Fee Surcharge
 - Needs to account for varying types of cars / usage
- Sales tax increase
 - Broadest based, lowest rate, most sustainable

Estimates on amount of foregone fuel energy tax varies, but from calculations based on ARTBA data (American Roads and Transportation Building Association), Michigan gas tax rates, and average gallons of gas purchased, a reasonable estimate would be between $230 - $314 dollars in foregone fuel energy tax revenue a year for a vehicle that purchases no gasoline (average vehicle uses about 531 gallons of gas per year).

There are currently roughly 25,000 hybrid or alternative fuel passenger vehicles registered in Michigan, the majority of which are Toyota Prius.
